CORPORATE LIVING SHOWCASES GROWTH WITH OPENING OF NEW HOUSTON OFFICE

TWINSBURG, OH, June 6, 2017 -- Corporate Living, a leading provider of temporary housing, announced today the Company's expansion with the opening of its new Houston office.

The need for short-term and long-term apartments, condominiums and townhouses is rapidly growing; therefore, Corporate Living is adding resources to personally service customers worldwide. As part of this growth plan, the company has added Amy Geallis to lead the Houston office. In her role as Senior Director, Client Assurance, Geallis is responsible for the relationship, development and performance of national clients, as well as driving client satisfaction.

Corporate Living's unmatched service and dedication to making every person's experience pleasant and convenient is what drives business and client retention. Its placement strategy is both personal and customized, always ensuring consumers find their preferred home-like environment.

"With the demand for corporate housing increasing throughout the United States, it was important to us that we increase both support to relocation professionals and expanded access to comfortable housing options," said Karen Baldrige, Corporate Living President and CEO. "By creating an added presence, we will, even more effectively, fulfill needs and ensure quality living."

The newly opened Houston office serves as Corporate Living's fourth regional office nationwide with other locations in Twinsburg (Cleveland), OH, New York, NY and Phoenix, AZ.
